

NASA Moonbase Alpha Easter Egg Instructions

By Pimpstik and Basvg - September 2010 v1.1

These instructions will take you to the location of the Easter Egg for NASA Moonbase Alpha. This egg can be located during competitive or freeplay games. No other players are required to access the egg. You may want to have a pen/pencil and paper to write a couple of things down once you access the egg. You can return to the egg as many times as you like.

Quick overview of accessing the egg (expanded instructions after this section)

1. Enter command center.
2. Enter the Static Telepresence monitor on the top right.
3. Exit the Static Telepresence monitor (left click to exit).
4. Repeat the sequence of steps 2 & 3 two more times.
5. On the fourth "entry" into Static Telepresence you will get a menu instead of the view change to Telepresence (see below).

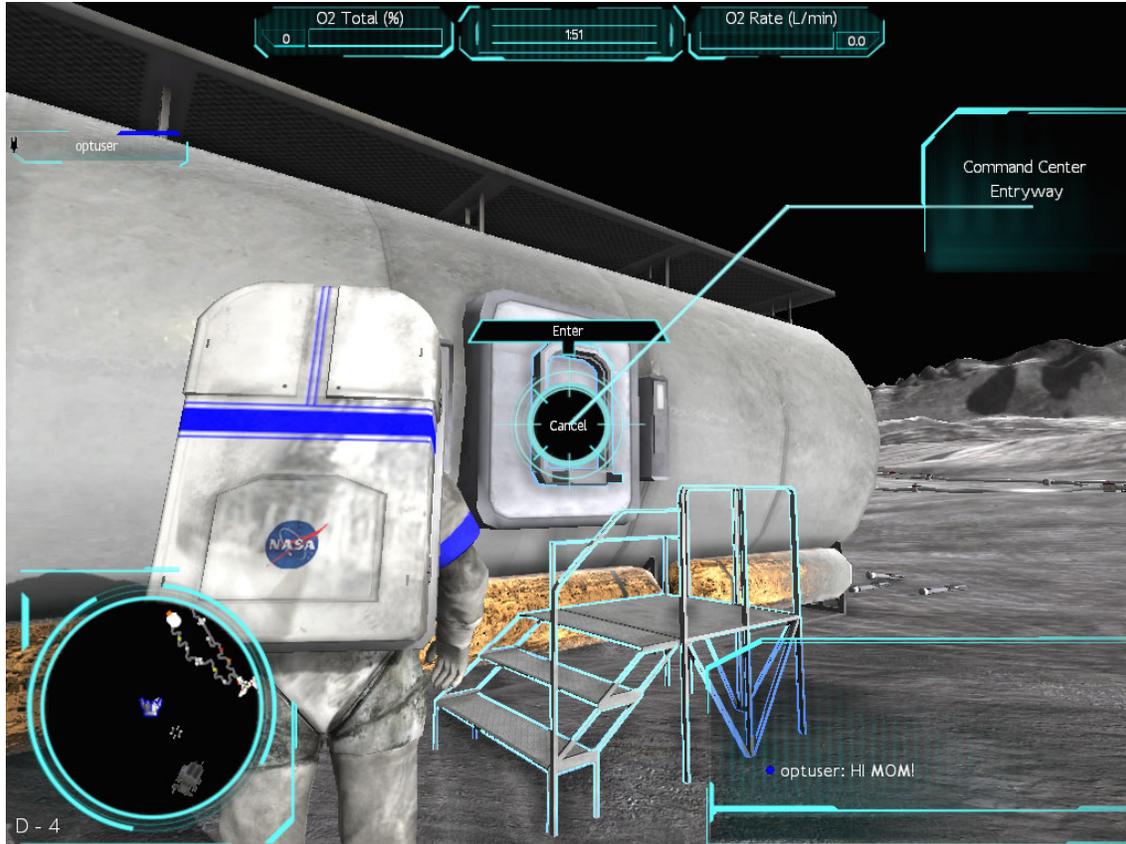

6. Select Access MBAOS from menu.
7. Have fun, don't die, your mileage may vary.

Expanded Instructions

Step 1: go to the command center. The command center is located directly west of the equipment shed(s) and south of the power lines.

Step 2: enter the command center. Stand near the entry and put the target crosshairs on the entry hatch area. The pop-up label for the hatch appears (upper right of screen). Left click to open the menu and select “Enter.”

Step 2 (view change): after your astronaut climbs the stairs, you are now in the command center with the view below.

Step 3: Turn slightly to the right from the above view. The top right monitor is the Static Telepresence monitor screen. Put the target crosshairs on the monitor to get the pop-up label to appear. Left clicking this monitor will take you directly into the telepresence viewer. There will be no menu option.

Step 3 (view change to telepresence, note keyboard command list on right side)

Step 4: from the telepresence view, exit out by left clicking and selecting exit from the menu option.

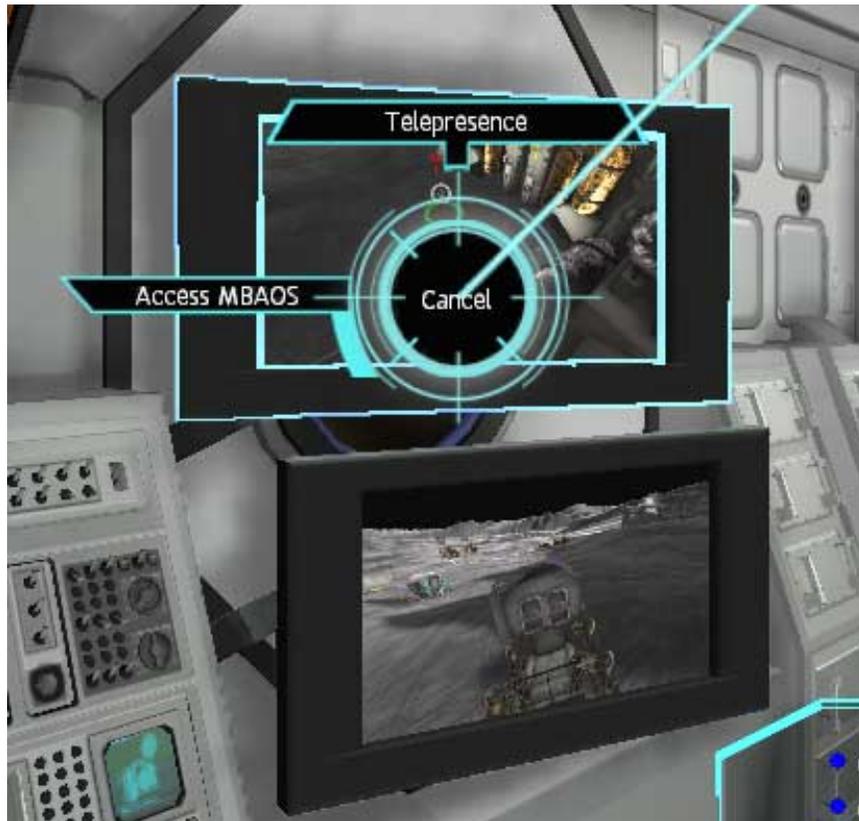

Step 4 (view change) returns you back to the command center view.

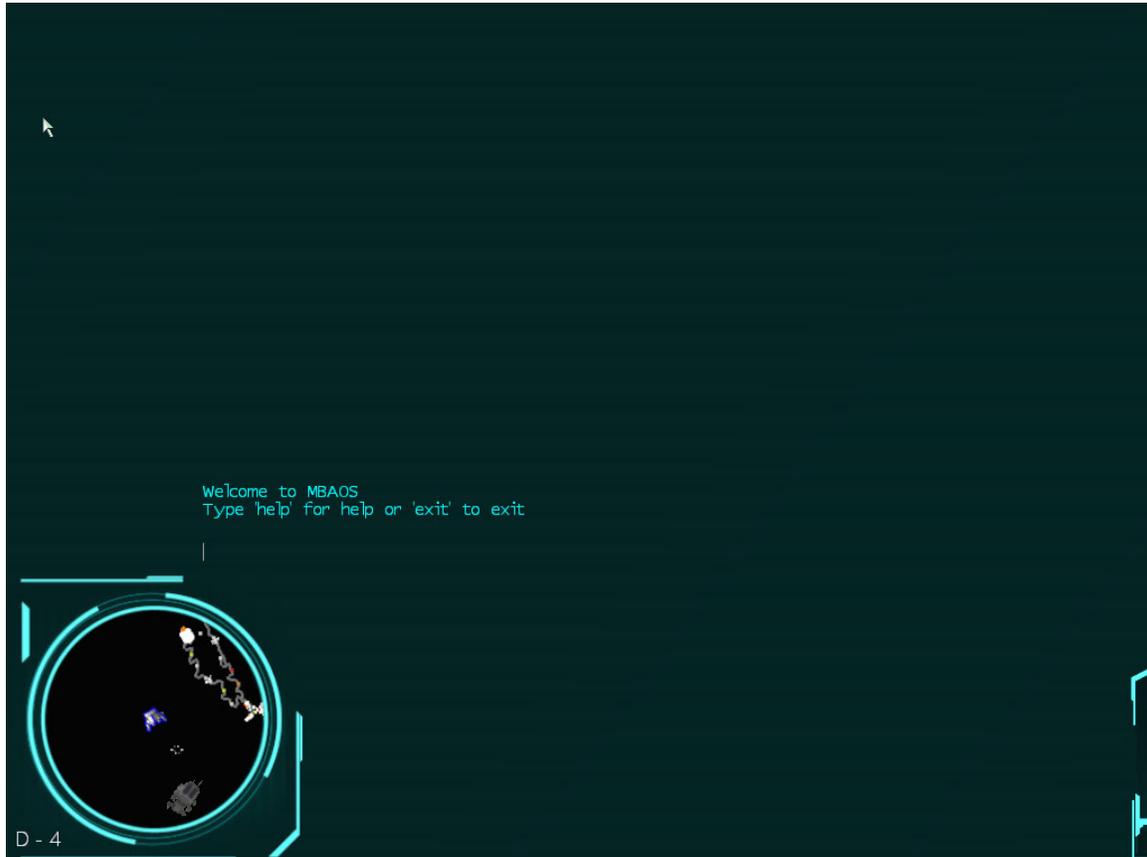

Step 5: repeat the sequence of steps 3 & 4 an additional two times. Enter, exit, enter, exit. Note each time you enter the telepresence viewer there is NO intermediate menu selection. Your view immediately shifts from inside the command center to telepresence.

Step 6: After you have completed the third cycle (total) of steps 3 & 4, the next click to enter the Static Telepresence monitor will be different. Instead of shifting immediately to the telepresence view, you will remain in the command center and get a menu over the monitor.

The option to the left, Access MBAOS, will take you into....

NASA Moonbase Alpha Easter Egg Screen

You are now in a text-based operating system. The chat window appears to be suspended during this sequence. All keyboard entries will appear in the MBAOS. Follow all instructions and write down any commands you think you may need to operate the system. No documentation is currently available for the MBAOS. Once you're in, it's up to you to get out. Good luck!